Publications, Awards & Appointments:

1. How do you feel you can contribute to the leadership of ASNM? What strengths/passions/talents do you hold that would benefit ASNM?

As a past president, and one of the longest sitting members of the board of directors for the past several years I feel I have had a great deal of experience with ASNM matters. I have gained a wealth of knowledge about what our society needs and how to best serve it. I have co- authored our practice guidelines and helped new presidents and board members get oriented in their new positions.

2. With changes in health care service delivery and reimbursement, what and how do you feel you can contribute to keep ASNM moving forward in the right direction?

I have practiced Neurology and IOM as a private practitioner for the past 30 years. I have seen the evolution and direction that healthcare has and is taken and navigated it successfully. I will bring my many years of experience to the table to help our board and association navigate the current climate.

3. ASNM constantly seeks ideas of how to better serve our membership through education, resources, representation to other professional entities, connections and networking or other means of advancement. What do you think ASNM could offer its members that would provide value?

We continue to offer excellent education and networking opportunities even in the face of the pandemic we had a superb line up of online offerings. I feel that going forward we need a balanced and innovative selection of both in person and online content. Collaborating with other societies such as ISIN and ASET will be the key to our growth and evolution.

4. How do you see the role of the ASNM in advocating for the profession on intra-operative neuromonitoring?

We have historically and continue to be an educational society. That is our mission. We do, however, need to be involved more in the shaping of policy and reimbursement. If we don't play a part in it, then others will, and may not have the best interest of the field in mind.

5. Describe your academic or professional contributions to the field of intra-operative neuromonitoring (this can include publications, reviews, research contributions, creating or advancing professionalism in a service that is dedicated to intra-operative neuromonitoring, education, outreach, presentations, running or organizing meetings (in-house, local, national, international), societal contributions ...)

Co-authored the Practice Guidelines for the Practicing Professional: intraoperative neurophysiological monitoring, co-authored letters to the editor on various IOM topics, member of a joint societal committee for the development of practice guidelines, chaired annual ASNM meeting and seasonal meetings, lectured locally and internationally,

6. Personal Statement: Please provide any additional information to the members.

It has been my honor to serve ASNM and the IOM field officially for almost 30 years. I draw from these years of experience and from my years as a practicing Neurologist. It is my pleasure to continue to not only practice in this specialty but to serve and assist in its progression and survival. We are at a crucial and delicate time in our history and the need for seasoned leadership is more now than ever.
