15th Annual ASNMM Meeting

THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF NEUROPHYSIOLOGICAL MONITORING

May 13~16, 2004

UPMC

University of Pittsburgh
 Medical Center

Jointly Sponsored by the American Society of Neurophysiological Monitoring and the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine
 Center for Continuing Education
 in the Health Sciences

Holiday Inn Riverwalk
 San Antonio, Texas

Board Reviews:
 Thursday, May 13, 2004

Course Director

Tod Sloan, MD, PhD
 Professor, Anesthesiology
 University of Texas Health Science Center

Vision and Mission Statement

The Society serves as the leading organization for the field of interventional neurophysiological assessment and monitoring.

Quality neurophysiological monitoring benefits patient outcomes. The Society:

- Fosters the growth and stature of neurophysiological monitoring as a profession
- Represents and advocates within the medical community on behalf of members
- Provides a forum for education and dissemination of knowledge in the field
- Develops quality standards for practice and training
- Promotes the highest standards of neurophysiological monitoring through research
- Builds partnerships and coalitions with allied professionals

Intent and Overview

The structure of the 15th Annual ASNM Meeting is to provide both a review of basic neurophysiologic monitoring technology and methods in addition to a forum for presentation and discussion of cutting edge concepts in the field. Prior to the main meeting, participants will have the opportunity to attend two review sessions on Thursday evening, May 13, 2004 focused towards the CNIM™ certification, which is administered by ABRET and the Diplomat certification, administered by ABNM.

The conference will begin on Friday, May 14, 2004 with two parallel sessions that will allow attendees to participate in an entire day of basic didactic lectures and case presentations, or attend contributed papers on cutting edge topics. The Saturday sessions are structured to provide a forum for scientific and case presentations, special interest seminars, and focused reviews of specialized topics. Sunday will conclude with a half-day session that will focus on various aspects of the business and practice of neurophysiologic monitoring.

Objectives

After participating in this program, the participants should be able to:

- Discuss the basic principles for conducting and interpreting intraoperative neurophysiological monitoring (IOM).
- Identify the basic neuroanatomy and neurophysiology relevant to IOM.
- Identify the basic tenants of ethics related to IOM.
- Describe the principles and methods of recording and monitoring during procedures for chronic pain management and deep brain stimulation.
- Develop an understanding of the elements for clinical decision making during IOM.
- Develop an understanding of the basic aspects related to the business of IOM.

Who Should Attend

This symposium is designed for physician and non-physician practitioners involved with patients where neurophysiological monitoring may be used and who wish to refine and expand their knowledge or skills. This symposium is also designed for Neurological, Orthopedic and ENT surgeons who utilize IOM as part of their routine practice or who are interested in learning more about IOM technique. The review courses on Thursday evening will be useful for practitioners preparing for the CNIM™ and ABNM exam.*

Continuing Education Credit

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint sponsorship of the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and American Society of Neurophysiological Monitoring. The University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, as part of the Consortium for Academic Continuing Medical Education, is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine designates this educational activity for a maximum of 15.25 Category 1 credits toward the AMA Physician's Recognition Award. Each physician should claim only those credits that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Other health care professionals are awarded 1.525 continuing education units (CEU's) which are equal to 15.25 contact hours.

The University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine is approved by the Continuing Education Board of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) to offer continuing education activities in speech-language pathology and audiology. This program is offered for 1.525 CEU's (Advanced Level; Audiology Area). ASHA CE Provider approval does not imply endorsement of course, content, specific products, or clinical procedures. ASET "ACE" Credits shall be applied for.

Meeting Location

The meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn Riverwalk, 217 N. St. Mary's, San Antonio, Texas, 78205. A block of rooms has been reserved at special conference rates starting at $119 for single/double occupancy plus applicable taxes. Please call 1-800-445-8475 in the continental U.S. or direct (210) 224-2500. You must specify that you are an ASNM participant to receive the special room rates. All registrants are strongly encouraged to stay at the hotel. There are substantial society financial penalties for under-occupancy of our conference hotel. Please be advised that April 10, 2004 is the last day to receive the group rates. Reservations will be accepted on a space available basis after that date. Take advantage of the special rates by booking early. Check the ASNM web page for updates, abstracts, and travel information at www.ASNM.org.
